

Kaita

RECYCLING UNIT

Design Jukka Jokinen & Heikki Konu

Kaita is a stylish, space-efficient waste sorting solution made in Finland, integrating recycling seamlessly into spatial architecture. Thanks to its modular structure, Kaita adapts to a wide range of environments, and the units can be arranged in a row, side by side, or back-to-back, depending on the spatial requirements. Its slim external dimensions combined with a large capacity extend emptying intervals and simplify maintenance in high-traffic environments. Timeless design, replaceable components, and fully recyclable materials make Kaita a long-lasting and responsible investment. The harmonious colour palette allows the solution to blend seamlessly into different interior settings, while its modularity ensures that the system evolves with the changing needs of the space. Kaita is ideally suited for offices, learning environments, public spaces, and event venues.

Venny Soldan-Brofeldts konst. De båda konstnärerna bodde i konstnärsskolans vid Tusby träsk vid sekelskiftet 1800-1900. Här i den egna torvan tittalar vi dem med förnamn, alltså Eero och Venny.

Welcome to Järvenpää Art Museum, the home of Eero Järnefelt's and Venny Soldan-Brofeldt's art. Both artists lived in the artists' community of Tussulanjärvi at the turn of the 20th century. Here, in their home region, we refer to them simply as Eero and Venny.
